1. Introduction

St John's expects all members of the school community to treat other people with courtesy and respect. Everyone has the right to be safe and secure, whether at school or elsewhere and to be protected when vulnerable. Bullying of any kind is unacceptable; it damages children physically and emotionally (which might cause psychological damage) and the School will therefore do all that it can to prevent it.

This policy has the following objective:

- To ensure that all governors, teaching and support staff, pupils and parents should have an understanding of what bullying is, understand the School policy and what to do if bullying arises.

The School has produced an Anti-Bullying Policy specifically for pupils (appendix 1). This policy is available to parents on the School website.

2. What is bullying?

Bullying is behaviour by an individual or group, usually repeated over time, that intentionally hurts another individual or group either physically or emotionally. Bullying can take many forms and is often motivated by prejudice against particular groups for example on grounds of race, religion, culture, sex, gender, homophobia, special educational needs or disability, or because a child is adopted or is a carer. It may occur directly or through cyber-technology (social websites, mobile phones, text messages, photographs and email).

Bullying might be motivated by actual differences between children, or perceived differences. Stopping violence and ensuring immediate physical safety is obviously the School's first priority, but emotional bullying can be more damaging than physical; teachers will have to make their own judgements about each specific case.

Many experts say that bullying involves an imbalance of power between the perpetrator and the victim. This could involve perpetrators of bullying having control of over the relationship which makes it difficult for those that they bully to defend themselves. The imbalance of power can manifest itself in several ways, it may be physical, psychological (knowing what upsets someone), derive from an intellectual imbalance, or by having access to the support of a group, or the capacity to socially isolate.

It can result in the intimidation of a person or persons through the threat of violence or by isolating them either physically or online. Sometimes the perpetrator is being thoughtless.

Examples of bullying behaviour:

- Physical: pushing, kicking, hitting or any other form of violence, damaging or hiding someone else's belongings or clothes. Deliberately setting someone up to get the blame for breaking school rules and initiation ceremonies.
- Emotional: being deliberately unfriendly, excluding from a group, spreading rumours.
- Verbal: aggressive name calling, teasing, mockery, insults, spreading rumours, use of homophobic, racist, sexist and other types of discriminatory language.
- Religious: mocking, ridiculing or tormenting someone because of their religious beliefs.
- Sexual: unwanted sexual attention or sexually abusive written or verbal comments. Inappropriate comments about appearance and attractiveness, uninvited propositions, uninvited touching and using innuendo and inappropriate imagery.
- Cultural: mocking, humiliating or tormenting a pupil because of their nationality or background (e.g. their accent, manners or appearance).
- Homophobic: humiliating, ridiculing or tormenting because of their sexual orientation. Derogatory use of the word 'gay'.
- Racist: racial taunts, gestures or written comments
- Disability: making comments about obvious disabilities or in time about disabilities that become apparent (learning difficulties) or because a child is adopted or is a carer.
- Cyber: see below

It is important to stress that it is the perception of the victim and not the perpetrator that matters; too often perpetrators pass off their behaviour as banter.

What are the signs of bullying?

It is not always easy or even possible to tell whether someone is upset. Young people who feel under emotional pressure may find it hard to talk. A pupil displaying the following may be experiencing bullying:

- becomes School phobic;
- becomes withdrawn, anxious or loses confidence;
- becomes unusually aggressive or disruptive;
- changes his or her usual routine (for instance, stops going to the dayroom or to lunch);
- begins to perform poorly in schoolwork;
- has regular illnesses/regularly reports to the medical centre;
- has possessions which are damaged or continually 'misplaced';
- has unexplained cuts or bruises;
- starts to bully others;
- refuses to discuss what is wrong;
- seems afraid of or jumpy when answering a mobile phone or using the internet;
- offers implausible excuses for any of the above.

While none of the above necessarily indicates bullying, bullying should be considered a possibility if any of the above occurs and the situation should be investigated. For guidance on the signs of cyber-bullying please see below.

3. Preventing bullying & responses to bullying

Preventing bullying is a key factor and to this end the School undertakes to:

- Encourage appropriate behaviour at all times, ensuring pupils know what is expected of them;
- provide pupils with a copy of the Pupils' Charter and School Behaviour Policy which underlines these expectations (available in pupil handbook);
- include anti-bullying education at induction and as an integral part of the Wellbeing Programme;
- raise awareness of bullying and regularly remind pupils of the nature of bullying and the need to ensure an anti-bullying culture pervades all areas of school life, e.g. by the use of assemblies, anti-bullying week, projects, drama, stories and literature.

- Raise awareness of staff through training so that the principles of this policy are understood.
- educate pupils, especially boarders, that initiation ceremonies or physical punishments will not be tolerated;
- use the Student Council and the Boarders' Council to consider bullying as a standing agenda item, to advise the DSL of any developments and general concerns, and offer ideas to facilitate reporting and response.
- remind pupils of the role of bystanders in preventing bullying and emphasise that bystanders have a responsibility to intervene appropriately when they witness bullying;
- ensure that staff and others, such as prefects, who are in positions of responsibility, are aware of the signs and symptoms of bullying and of how to respond;
- invest in specialised skills and training, as appropriate, to understand the needs of the pupils, including those with SEN or disabilities, and lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender pupils (LGBT+);
- discuss the idea of 'different but equal' and not, for example, defining a pupil by his or her colour, religion, disability or sexual orientation, and the importance of avoiding prejudice-based language;
- Monitor and filter pupils access to the internet.

The Director of Pastoral Care will be responsible for the coordinating the School's Anti-Bullying strategy.

The School recognises that pupils do not always wish to report bullying, but an open approach is encouraged and it is hoped that any pupil who is being bullied will seek help. It may, for instance, be appropriate to seek help from a senior pupil or prefect rather than a member of staff. Whatever the circumstances, bullying is never acceptable, and it is vital that any victim of bullying feels supported and feels able to report the incident to an appropriate person.

Where a parent or pupil is concerned that someone is being bullied they should speak with their son or daughter's tutor or Housemaster/mistress. Pupils can anonymously report bullying through Firefly: Bullying — St John's School

Where the School becomes aware of a bullying incident, it undertakes to respond appropriately. In all cases, the School will initially consider them first against the School's Safeguarding procedures. The aim of the response is to stop the bullying, to ensure that the bully understands why his/her behaviour is unacceptable and to aim to prevent any reoccurrence. Whilst the precise response will depend on the specific circumstances, the following general guidelines will apply:

- All reported instances of bullying will be taken seriously. In deciding how to proceed in a particular case, the School will listen carefully to the victim and discuss with him/her the preferred and appropriate course of action.
- It is recognised that victims are often frightened to report bullying as they fear that the bully will retaliate by escalating the nature of the bullying. The School recognises this as typical bullying behaviour and encourages pupils to be confident that the School will deal sensitively with any reported incident.
- All incidents will be investigated and incidents will be recorded by staff (in CPOMs). Where appropriate parents will be informed and may be asked to attend a meeting to discuss the incident.
- Pupils who are found to have been bullying will be encouraged to confront their behaviour and they will be offered help and guidance as to how to correct their behaviour. The motivation for their behaviour should be considered.
- If possible the pupils will be reconciled.
- Where bullying is serious or persistent, appropriate sanctions will be applied. Any pupil who persists in bullying others must understand that he/she may ultimately lose the right to remain in the School.

The Designated Safeguarding Lead will regularly review incidents of bullying to monitor the effectiveness of the approach adopted and enable for any patterns to be identified.

4. Guidance for staff

All Staff are in a position of trust, and there are expectations that they will act in a professional manner at all times and model appropriate behaviour. In their dealings with pupils and with each other, staff should not misuse their positions of power and they should at all times treat pupils and other staff with respect. Staff should be aware of the contents of the Safeguarding and Protecting Children Policy and Procedures and of their responsibilities towards all pupils in the School.

All staff should be prepared to listen to pupils when they wish to talk about bullying behaviour. It is crucial that pupils can trust staff to take their concerns seriously and to treat their concerns sensitively and with regard to their right of privacy. All staff should seek to regularly reinforce the School's anti-bullying ethos.

While some pupils may report bullying, others may, for a variety of reasons, be unable to do so. Staff should, however, be on the lookout for signs and symptoms (as outlined above) of a pupil being bullied.

Where staff observe bullying behaviour they should in the first instance confront the bully and reinforce the School's position on bullying. All staff should aim to confront any inappropriate behaviour, including banter, teasing and name-calling. Failure to do so may suggest to pupils that staff are giving their tacit approval to the behaviour.

All incidents of bullying should be reported to the appropriate Senior House Staff (SHS). In discussion with the member of staff who has observed the bullying, the Senior House Staff will decide the appropriate course of action. It should be remembered that the needs of both victim and bully need to be considered.

The following options should be considered:

- The victim's Senior House Staff should speak to the victim and put in place any necessary support.
- The bully's Senior House Staff should speak to the bully, admonishing and counselling as appropriate. A written record should be kept (CPOMs)
- Where the incident is deemed to be more serious, the Deputy Head will be involved. He will keep a written record of all incidents referred to him (which will be added to CPOMs). He may deem it appropriate to escalate to the Designated Safeguarding Lead and/or the Head, communicate with parents and where deemed necessary, apply appropriate sanctions
- All staff, but especially SHS and the Designated Safeguarding Lead, need to record incidents of bullying in CPOMs in order to identify trends or patterns of behaviour.
- Support must be provided to the victim and the perpetrator.

The following guidelines apply where there is a need to investigate an incident of bullying within a tutor group. Such an investigation would usually involve the tutor and the appropriate SHS. If in doubt about the appropriate procedure, reference should be made to the Designated Safeguarding Lead. As a general rule we should in the first instance avoid using punishments to help resolve a problem.

- Interview the victim
Take an account from the victim and really listen. The circumstances are not especially important but the effects are. Note down the feelings and allow the victim to express these at length. It is sometimes useful to get the victim to write down his or her feelings.
- Call a meeting of those involved in the bullying
Where one or two pupils are the chief instigators of the bullying then include observers or those who collude by failing to intervene.
- Explain the problem
Tell the group how the victim is feeling and emphasise his/her distress. Do not discuss the fine details or attribute blame.
- Share responsibility
Do not attribute blame; state that you know that the members of the group are responsible people and can do something about it.
- Ask each member of the group to suggest a way in which the victim could be helped to feel happier.
List all the ideas that emerge and leave it there.

- Pass the responsibility over to the group to solve
About a week later see each group member individually to find out how things are going. You should also see the victim.
Throughout the process it is important to convey your belief that the pupils involved are not "bad"; are capable of responsible and kind behaviour, and that they will help the victim.
- Follow Up
Tutors should check regularly that the bullying problem has been eradicated. Where it persists the tutor should inform Senior House Staff who should consult the Deputy Head or the Designated Safeguarding Lead.

Where staff feels that they have been the victim of bullying they should report the incident to their line manager.

5. Cyberbullying

Cyberbullying is bullying that takes place using technology. Whether on social media sites, through a mobile phone, or gaming sites the effects can be devastating for the pupil involved. Research shows that most children have been involved in cyberbullying in some way, either as a victim, perpetrator, or bystander. By its very nature, cyberbullying tends to involve a number of online bystanders and can quickly spiral out of control. Children and young people who bully others online do not need to be physically stronger and their methods can often be hidden and subtle. The impact of cyberbullying can be particularly severe as the victim feels that they cannot escape the bullying which can take place at school or at home.

Social media can create a false sense of security; it can be easier to say and reveal things online that wouldn't be said face to face; be cruel, aggressive or flirtatious. It is important for pupils to remember that there are offline consequences to online behaviour. Comments intended to be funny can often be misinterpreted online whereas if said face to face could be acceptable as facial expressions, body language, tone of voice and context all help to ensure that comments are taken the right way. Social networking can increase existing social pressures and reinforce a sense of isolation; for instance by people purposefully not liking a young person's status update or photo so they seem unpopular, or by excluding them from group chats. Online bullying involves a large audience and this increases the pressure.

What are the signs of cyberbullying?

It is not easy to spot the signs as it can happen all the time, which is a feature that makes it different to others forms of bullying. Be alert to changes in behaviour, for example:

- Being upset, withdrawn or outraged after using the internet or mobile phone.
- Unwillingness to talk or secretive about online activities and mobile phone use.
- Spending much more or much less time texting, gaming or using social media.
- Many new phone numbers, texts or email addresses show up on their mobile phone, laptop or tablet.
- Not wanting to go to school and/or avoiding meeting friends and school mates.
- Avoiding formerly enjoyable social situations.
- Difficulty sleeping
- Low self-esteem.

Support for children who are bullied

As with any form of bullying staff should support pupils who have been bullied and develop strategies to prevent bullying from happening. Cyberbullying can be upsetting and knock confidence. Childline has produced guidance for young people on building their confidence after online bullying available at: Childline – Building confidence after online bullying.

The Anti-Bullying alliance has excellent advice online outlining the range of support that is available to schools, parents and pupils and can be found here.

6. Sexual violence and sexual harassment between children in schools - Peer on Peer Abuse

(extract from the School's Safeguarding and Protecting Children Policy and Procedures)

Context

Peer on peer abuse can take different forms such as sexual violence and harassment, physical abuse, sexting (also known as youth produced sexual imagery) or initiation and rituals.

We recognise the gendered nature of peer on peer abuse; it is more likely that girls will be victims and boys perpetrators, but all peer on peer abuse is unacceptable and will be taken seriously.

Sexual violence and sexual harassment can occur between two children of any age and sex. It can also occur through a group of children sexually assaulting or sexually harassing a single child or group of children.

Children who are victims of sexual violence and sexual harassment will likely find the experience stressful and distressing. This will, in all likelihood, adversely affect their education attainment as well as their emotional well-being. Sexual violence and sexual harassment exist on a continuum and may overlap; they can occur online and offline (both physically and verbally) and are never acceptable. It is important that all victims are taken seriously and offered appropriate support.

Reports of sexual violence and sexual harassment are extremely complex to manage. It is essential that victims are protected, offered appropriate support and every effort is made to ensure their education is not disrupted. It is also important that other children, adult students and School staff are supported and protected as appropriate.

Policy

We believe that all children have a right to attend School and learn in a safe environment. Children should be free from harm by adults and other children in School.

We recognise that children are capable of abusing their peers and this will be dealt with under our Safeguarding and Protecting Children Policy and Procedures and in line with KCSIE (2018).

We are clear that sexual violence and sexual harassment is not acceptable. Abuse is abuse and will never be tolerated or passed off as "banter", "just having a laugh" and is not an inevitable part of growing up.

7. Boarding

The School is conscious that bullying can take place during boarding time and will have regard to the National Minimum Standards (NMS) for Boarding schools (especially standard 12). These include:

- Briefing for senior pupils given positions of responsibility over other pupils, on appropriate action to take should they receive allegations of abuse or bullying.
- Training for boarding tutors to raise awareness.

Any interference with a pupil's sleeping area will be dealt with severely.

8. Bullying outside school premises

Where bullying outside school is reported to staff (including cyber-bullying) it will be investigated and acted on in accordance with the procedures outlined above. The Head, Deputy Head and Designated Safeguarding Lead will also consider whether it is appropriate to notify the police or other agencies of the action taken against a pupil. If the misbehaviour could be criminal or poses a serious threat to a member of the public, the police will always be informed.

In all cases of misbehaviour or bullying the teacher can only discipline the pupil on school premises or elsewhere when the pupil is under the lawful control of the staff member. Teachers have a legal authority to discipline pupils for misbehaving outside the School premises; this can relate to any bullying incidents occurring anywhere off the school premises such as on school or public transport, in Leatherhead, during educational visits or online.

9. Safeguarding

A bullying incident will be addressed as a child protection concern where this is 'reasonable cause to suspect that a child is suffering, or is likely to suffer, significant harm'. In assessing this, the School will refer to Surrey Safeguarding Children's Board (SSCB) Levels of Needs \(2016\). Where it is the case, staff should report their concerns in accordance with the procedures outlines in the School's Safeguarding and Protecting Children Policy and Procedures. Further guidance is available in this document.

Any use of digital equipment which breaches the School rules, including the use or misuse of indecent images of children (under 18s) could lead to the involvement of the Police.

Bystanders

The School makes it clear to all pupils that bystanders have a key responsibility to the School community and to anyone they see being bullied or victimised. They are encouraged not to tolerate such behaviour and to stand up for what they know to be right, for example by telling a member of staff what they have seen or heard.
